

Easy searching Old HK Newspapers in Multimedia Information System

The Hong Kong Public Libraries has been authorized to digitize some old newspapers for the Multimedia Information System (MMIS) with a view to facilitate research and private study by the public. After upgrade the MMIS (<https://mmis.hkpl.gov.hk/>) utilizes a new search engine. You can easily search old HK newspapers with the Basic Search plus Refine Search.

Entering the Content Cover Page of a selected item, most of the features in previous version of MMIS on viewing search results of old newspapers are retained, including marking page number of the pages that contain the keyword(s) with asterisk (*), pressing page number will display the relevant page, etc. A new feature is added to facilitate viewing, i.e. news headlines in the current page will be displayed on the right of the viewer with the searched keyword highlighted.

The following are two examples to illustrate how to search keyword on newspaper headlines and browse specific newspaper title. From now on, you can use Basic Search to search and browse old newspapers with ease.

Example 1 : Use Basic Search for keyword search on old HK newspaper news headlines

1. Type in the keyword in the search box and click the search icon  on the right of the search box or press <Enter>, e.g. “Arts Festival”.

The screenshot shows the MMIS interface with the search term "Arts Festival" entered in the search bar. A red arrow points to the search bar. The main banner features a video titled "Customs and Folklore of Hong Kong Tuen Ng Festival". Below the banner are two sections: "MOST POPULAR" and "RECENTLY ADDED". The "MOST POPULAR" section shows three items: a CDROM, a Newspaper and Serial, and Digital Audio, all with "NO IMAGE AVAILABLE" placeholders. The "RECENTLY ADDED" section shows three items: Digital Audio (with a cover image for "博文公開 講座系列"), a CD, and Digital Video (with a cover image for "博文公開 講座系列"). The footer includes the text "© LEISURE AND CULTURAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT" and a navigation menu with links like "ABOUT MMIS", "TERMS OF USE", "ASK A LIBRARIAN", "HKPL", "HKCL", "VIRTUAL TOUR OF HKCL", "CONTACT US", and "WEB ACCESSIBILITY CONFORMANCE".

Tips:

1. Please add “” if you want to search for results with exact match of the searched keywords, e.g. “Arts Festival”.
2. For Basic Search, MMIS will search bibliographic information including title, author, subject, notes, old newspaper headlines, OCR text of newspaper clipping and archival materials, which is equivalent to selecting Criteria = “Content” in Advanced Search.

2. From Refine Search, go to COLLECTIONS and click See More to display more collection names and select the “Old HK Newspapers” option to filter the search results.

The screenshot shows the search results page for 'Arts Festival'. The navigation bar includes HOME, MY MMIS, EXPLORE, COLLECTION, KIDS, BOOKING, and USING MMIS. The search results are displayed in a list view, showing 1-10 of 3444 results. The first four results are:

Amiral Says "We're Desperately Short"

OR MORE WARE"

London, Sept. 27. Clos, joint commander of Nato exercise "Sea", sounded a grave inadequacy of British naval forces, even in the event of atomic warfare. It said the United States and Canada must expect to be attacked by guided missiles launched from enemy submarines and that the eastern partners of Nato should be able to defend themselves against the outbreak of hostilities until reinforcements could reach them.—Reuter & France-Press.

adequate naval forces, even in the event of atomic warfare. It said the United States and Canada must expect to be attacked by guided missiles launched from enemy submarines and that the eastern partners of Nato should be able to defend themselves against the outbreak of hostilities until reinforcements could reach them.—Reuter & France-Press.

UNDERWATER MISSILES

Passadena, Sept. 27. A new arsenal of "fantastically lethal" weapons, designed to make the oceans too hot for an enemy submarine fleet, are quietly being developed by a small group of U.S. experts.

These weapons are known as "underwater" guided missiles. Some of them swim through the water, some fly through the air and some can do both. All have electronic brains and are fast enough to give an atomic submarine commander nightmares.—United Press.

Sunstreaks Discovered

Minneapolis, Sept. 27. American scientists have discovered streaks on the sun which are smaller and probably hotter than any observed so far, astronomer Martin Schwarzschild announced today.

Schwarzschild, who teaches at Princeton University, directed recent tests in which cameras mounted in an unmanned spherical balloon photographed the sun from an altitude of 21,000 metres.

Schwarzschild said these "dome-up" spots, taken from above most of the atmospheric layers, revealed faults (sunstreaks) smaller than any observed hitherto.

These streaks are probably hotter than the bigger ones because they showed up brighter on photographs, he said.—France-Press.

Monty Has Flu

London, Sept. 27. Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Deputy Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, was ill with flu today at his home at Bentley in Hampshire.—China Mail Special.

Whisky, Gin To Be Dearer

London, Sept. 27. The price of whisky and gin sold in Britain will be raised by about four per cent starting on October 1 to keep pace with the rising cost of production and distribution, distillers announced today.

The prices are liable to rise from the present 35 shillings to 37/6d, distillers said according to a France-Press cable.

HONGKONG PRICES

In Hongkong, importers of three two commodities said they had not been informed of the increase by either the London shipowners or agents. They added that they were unable to say what would be the effect on the price of whisky and gin in the local market as the increase would only affect the "home" market in the United Kingdom and not generally the export trade.

Local dealers were reluctant to say that if the increase would affect Britain's export trade, whether such increases would be absorbed by the dealers in Hongkong or pass the increase on to their customers here.

Mothers' Bid To Close Little Rock School

Little Rock, Sept. 27. The Mothers Association of the Little Rock High School will meet Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus tomorrow to demand that he close the school.

This was announced tonight by Mrs Margaret Jackson, Vice-President of the Association, in a statement to the press.

Mrs Jackson said the Little Rock schools are supported by taxpayers, including the mothers, and that it is their "unquestionable right" to demand the closing of the school, into which Negro students have been integrated.

Referring to the presence of Federal troops who enforced a court order for the integration, she said: "Federal dictatorship is not conducive to educational activities. Furthermore, we feel that the very lives of our children are in great danger in the schools."—France-Press.

LADY GRANTHAM OPENS ARTS FESTIVAL CENTRE

"Ever since this Colony began, people of vision have seen in it a place of fusion, of interchange... a place where there is great encouragement and cause for the thoughtful man to break free of his prejudices and see things as they are," said Lady Grantham when she opened the Exhibition Centre of the Festival of the Arts this morning.

Lady Grantham said that Hongkong was a place where the greatest and beauty and honour, as well as the vices and folly and pettiness, of diverse modes of life were liberally contrasted and communicated each with the other.

"Our artists have presented us with a great co-operative effort," she added, "and it is for us to thank them for it, not in individual terms, but as an element in our society."

The Exhibition Centre, situated in the new Sir Perry Building on the Central Reclamation, is bigger this year than ever before. Seven exhibitions are being displayed this year as against five last year. The Centre is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily until October 13.

Act Of Faith

Lady Grantham, after a short speech of welcome by Miss Janet Turnbull, said: "This opening ceremony, when in 1955 it first took place, had the character of an act of faith of faith, as someone then had occasion to remark, not only in the validity and purpose of the first mandate, but of the sensitivity and response to that purpose of the people of this Colony."

"We believed that the arts are in themselves good, and that this is a good which people actively desire."

Development

"These phrases have set the challenging air that they had in 1955, for we have gained our original objective."

"We have seen, and everyone has seen, that our artists can produce, and that our people can respond to them, in such measure that it is no longer necessary for me, in opening these exhibitions, to speak only in terms of faith and hopefulness."

"The questions which concern us are now, I am very glad to say, is not whether in future years this experiment will be able to continue, but in what forms its inevitable development will take place."

"I say this with particular gratitude because, of course, this is the last time that I shall be performing this ceremony. To me that is a sad thought, among countless sad thoughts of a similar kind, but it is tempered by the happy one, that although I am the first and so far the only person to perform this function, I can confidently suppose that I shall by no means be the last."

"In the first of these speeches I said something of the great natural beauty that surrounds us in our life here: the beauty of mountain, island and sea, which is sufficient to call forth the artist in all of us."

Tradition

"But these are not the only things that move us to admire and create; the artist is often more concerned with the particular quality and flavour of human life. In that respect of its endless variety that characterises the place where he lives."

"How does such an artist fare in our community? I think he ends himself among riches indeed. Everywhere we see vitality, vigour of life, change, and rapid motion, and behind all this the vast, enduring monuments of not one but two mighty traditions of culture."

"Ever since this Colony began, people of vision have seen in it a place of fusion, of interchange. A place where the greatest, most beauty and honour (as well as the vices and folly and pettiness of diverse modes of life are liberally contrasted and communicated each with the other; a place where there is great encouragement and cause for the thoughtful man to break free of his prejudices and see things as they are."

Effort

"The artist, whose business is in the communication of honest perception, would do well to ponder this."

"But here, after all, we are not dealing with the problems of the individual artist. Our artists have presented us with a great co-operative effort, and it is for us to thank them for it, not in individual terms, but as an element in our society."

Big Uranium Deal

Ottawa, Sept. 27. The Canadian external affairs department announced today that negotiations had been completed between Canada and West Germany paving the way for the German Republic to buy 500 tons of Canadian uranium during the next five years.—Reuter.

A Very Special Goodbye To His Excellency

By A CHINA MAIL REPORTER

"Something very, very special" is being planned for H. E. the Governor, Sir Alexander Grantham, before he leaves Hongkong with Lady Grantham in December this year. That's going to be the last thing we'll give the Governor before he actually leaves," one of the organisers planning this "very, very special thing" told the China Mail.

All that can be said at this stage is that it's going to be a public farewell, a mass demonstration of the population's fond regard and respect for His Excellency for his past achievements for Hongkong and its people during his 10 years as Governor.

Four Unofficial Members of the Legislative Council, representing different sections of the community, are inviting societies, organisations, clubs, schools or any public bodies and private individuals, to join together to prepare for the event that is to take place at the Hongkong Stadium on December 28.

Only The Start

The four Honourable Members, Messrs C. E. Terry, Duan Hsiung-wei, Kwok Chan and Dr A. M. Rodrigues, told the China Mail that the public invitation to participate "is only the beginning."

No specific programme has yet been mapped out beyond the ambitious scheme of making the affair a really gigantic one. A Working Committee will be formed after October 15 when all those who are interested will have sent in their names, and representatives from the public bodies chosen to serve. And then discussion will take place to design a programme.

Mr Kwok Chan said that he and his colleagues are confident that many will join to make this public demonstration a real success.

A Big Thing

"We want to make it a big thing because Sir Alexander has done many public services for us and Hongkong during his many years here," Mr Kwok Chan says.

MAGAZINE WITHDRAWN Had New Painting Of Margaret

London, Sept. 27. Copies of the French weekly illustrated magazine "Paris Match", containing a photograph of the portrait of Princess Margaret by the Italian painter Antonio, were withdrawn from circulation today, after distribution in London had already started. An informed source said the London distributors of the magazine had received a letter from Princess Margaret's lawyers, warning them that the sale in Britain of a reproduction of the portrait would be a violation of the Crown copyright. Copies already distributed were withdrawn from bookstalls in the city.—France-Press.
